

What Others Are Saying

Passionate Pursuit has been such a blessing to me...

The last few months have been an extraordinarily trying time. I was working for an unethical woman who had just been caught in some illegal activities. She is currently under federal investigation. My reputation was beginning to suffer as a result of her sin and my close proximity to her. As an attorney I value my reputation for honesty because it is rare in my profession. My parents had recently divorced. My house had not sold. I couldn't find a different job. I truly thought God had forgotten me.

I attended Passionate Pursuit and heard Natalie talk about what happened when Jesus sent his disciples into the boat and the storm came up while Jesus was praying. Two things stood out to me. First, Natalie pointed out that Jesus saw the storm coming and sent his loved ones out into it anyway. I had never considered that He might purposely and lovingly send us into the heart of a storm.

Second, Natalie pointed out that the Scriptures clearly state that when they were scared, Jesus had not YET joined them. The "yet" spoke deeply to me. I went home and read and meditated on that scripture passage for weeks.

Within a month, God provided a job...It allowed me to leave while my reputation was still in tact. The job took me back to Dallas where my mother is – another blessing. My house hasn't YET sold, but "yet" has a new sound to me because of that night at Passionate Pursuit.

I love Passionate Pursuit! It is like a mini-Women of Faith Conference for me each month. However, it is much more affordable and I feel so much more pampered and loved...and free. At the October Passionate Pursuit – the Concert of Prayer – God supernaturally lifted anxiety and oppression that had been plaguing me for years!

“Just this morning I prayed – I was out of faith, gas, or hope. Your sermon was my answer from God! It's like I'm just beginning to see who God really is. This morning I felt like I was standing alone. Now I know I'm not! Thank you, Jesus.”

“I've been a doubting Thomas. I didn't realize until the message tonight just how much my faith has diminished over time through disappointing, hurtful circumstances. Tonight, that has changed! God has breathed fresh life into me and my walk of faith, and I know there is more to come”

— Valerie

“Because of this time of prayer & praise I realized God's standard of holiness must begin in me – in the small and big decisions I make every moment.”
